October is the Month of the Rosary

Try some of these creative ways to pray the Rosary as a family this month.

Linguistic

Provide a written outline of the Rosary, including a summary of the mysteries and a copy of the prayers. Children can make posters that explain how to pray the Rosary and include the text for each of the prayers. Older children can write short reflections for each of the mysteries.

Musical

Sing the prayers. There are several melodies for singing the Lord's Prayer, and a beautiful melody for the Hail Mary can be found at the beginning of the hymn "Hail Mary, Gentle Woman" by Carey Landry. Note that singing slows down the prayers, which provides great time for reflection, but can quickly become tiresome for children. Singing just the first Hail Mary of each decade can be a good compromise.

Logical-Mathematical

The Rosary in itself follows a logical sequence for children who are number-oriented. Making rosaries with string and beads can be a fun activity during which children must count the beads and spaces.

Spatial

Print out a picture of the Rosary; children can color in each bead as they pray. You can also print out pictures of the mysteries for children to color as they reflect on that decade. Another option is to have the children draw illustrations for each mystery.

Bodily-Kinesthetic

Make a walking rosary by hanging papers that symbolize beads around the room. Children can walk from bead to bead as they pray the Rosary. If it is safe to do so, draw beads on your sidewalk or parking area using sidewalk chalk. Another option is to make a giant rosary out of rope and slices of pool noodles. You can take places around the rosary and hold up the appropriate beads as you pray together.

Interpersonal

Find a quiet spot to pray together, taking turns praying each Hail Mary or assign different members one mystery then take turns leading the prayers for their decade.

Intrapersonal

Provide time for the children to pray by themselves. Praying a decade of the Rosary can be a great quiet activity when a child finishes other work early. When praying as a family, be sure to provide quiet time for personal reflection as each mystery is announced. A guided meditation can help children personally reflect on each mystery.

Naturalistic

Pray outside. If you or your parish has a garden or grotto, spend time praying there. If the garden or grotto has a statue of Mary, ask if you can plant flowers near the statue, or create a flower crown to place on Mary's head.

My favorite way to pray is when I am outside walking, kayaking, riding my bike or cross country skiing. Instead of carrying my rosary beads I just use my 10 fingers to count. ~Tammy
